Science as a Vocation. Lunch Talk on Academic Careers in Germany

Wednesday, 23rd January 2019
12.30 a.m.-2 p.m.
Events room of the International Office, Building 1106 (Welfengarten 1a)

For further information, please see the reverse side.
Lunch Talk „Academic Careers in Germany“

Are you a (PhD) student or a postdoc from abroad? Do you have an interest in pursuing an academic career in Germany? Then, this event is the right one for you!

For the first time, the lunch talk will be held in English and explicitly addresses international researchers. It will raise the important question of how an academic career in Germany might be successful, what the important factors in preparing an academic career are and what the specific difficulties and obstacles are (if there are any) for young researchers coming from abroad.

Dr. Alejandra Omarini will talk about her career so far, starting with a postdoc in Hannover and holding a Humboldt fellowship position in Bremen. She will give an impression of how an academic job after one’s PhD and/or postdoc can look like and what the perspectives and possibilities are.

Representatives of both the International Office and the Graduate Academy will chair the event and give further information on academic career paths after a PhD, circumstances (e.g. the "Wissenschaftszeitvertragsgesetz") and "specialties" of the German academia.

The lunch talk addresses all young researchers and those who are interested in the topic. As the event takes place at lunch time, everyone is invited to bring his own food and eat if desired. The lunch talk explicitly serves as an informal offer to get information and get in contact with peers from the university. Thus, questions are allowed and more than welcome!

Registration would be fine if possible. Please send for this purpose a short e-mail to graduiertenakademie@zuv.uni-hannover.de. Thank you!